Training opportunities for staff who require more in depth knowledge will be considered as part of our performance management process and additional CPD will be supported throughout the year where it becomes appropriate due to developing situations with one or more pupils.

Mental Health and Wellbeing in staff

A school's caring ethos and environment will have a major impact on the wellbeing of its staff and pupils. It's important for leaders to define that culture and vision, making it clear what behaviours, values and beliefs underpin it.

It is important too for the school leadership team (SLT) to build a culture of trust where school staff feel valued, can be open about their health and wellbeing and know how to access support if they need it.

For all of this to happen, it is essential for the head teacher and the school leadership team (including governors) to model good mental health and wellbeing behaviour and practice. It is also important for head teachers to remember to look after their own mental health and wellbeing alongside that of their staff.

A separate staff well-being policy is in place alongside this policy.
